THE AMAZING STAIN REMOVER, $23.90, OOPSACCESSORIES.COM, is a tiny atomiser that can be sprayed straight onto red wine, make-up or sauce stains for immediate treatment.

FASHION FIRST AID, (02) 9518 0877, is a range of inventions designed to keep your clothes (and bits!) in place. We really love Stopits, $19.90, which protect sleeved dresses from unsightly perspiration and deodorant stains, and Concealits, $19.90, which hide nipples under the flimsiest dresses and protect you from bad jokes from the best man.

Still think two hours for formal photos and a three-course sit-down dinner is the only proper way to be wed? Not according to two of Sydney's hottest wedding suppliers of the moment...

THE PHOTOS: "The days of spending hours on bridal party and couple shots are long gone. The most important part of the day is celebrating with family and friends, so we recommend reducing the travel time and stress that comes with attempts to fit in more than one location. The natural emotional reactions between the bride and groom are always going to produce the best images regardless of your location." Leigh Taylor, SugarLove Pictures, sugarlovepictures.com (who were hired by Natalie Imbruglia and Daniel Johns to snap their nuptials in Queensland).

THE FOOD: "I think that shared food is the way to go - customised and themed table banquets with generous portions and plenty of options, beautifully presented on the table and passed between guests. This is much nicer than alternate plating, which I personally don't think has ever really worked - there's something about it that seems divisive. Sharing your meal makes more sense. A table full of shared food speaks of generosity and celebration. And that's what wedding catering should be all about." John Mulligan, L'Amour Catering, lamourcatering.com.au.
